

PIXEL SHOOTER DEMO - BUGGED EDITION

Authors:

Hiroki S. Watanabe (244844)

Yuuki S. Watanabe (244845)

Description:

A PVP arena shooter game where each player controls a character that can hold 2 guns, a primary and a secondary. The game can hold up to 4 players, with 5 different character designs, and 10 different guns.

Mechanics:

The players can choose their character designs in the lobby, and can choose their guns in the 2 maps (the dungeon and the arena). There are no win conditions and you will revive whenever you die after a delay. The players are free to explore the different guns and dish it out in either map whenever they desire, in whatever mode they come up with (snipers only or secondary weapon only) and in whatever point system they want to use.

To cycle between maps, use teleporters seen in the maps by having all players stay within it for a few seconds. To change character designs, move player to designated character sprites in the lobby. To change guns, move player to designated gun sprites found at the start of the dungeon and arena. Each gun has its own strengths and drawbacks, where the primary guns mostly focused on firepower, and secondary guns mostly focused on mobility and reliability. Each gun will have its own reload time, move speed, vision range, etc. so choose what fits you best.

Instructions:

To start the game, first run GameServer, and place in the input the amount of players you're planning to play with. After GameServer is running, run GameStarter in devices with the same connection as the device running GameServer, specify in the input the Server's IP address (can be found using ipconfig in CMD of GameServer's device). After the set amount of devices has connected, the game starts and you're all spawned in the lobby with the default primary and secondary gun.

Each player has these controls for their character:

- WASD to move character

- Mouse to aim gun

- Mouse press to shoot

- Q to switch to primary/secondary gun

- E to dash (w/ invincibility frames)

- R to reload current gun

To start fighting, go directly to either teleporters in the lobby, the top-left teleporter teleports you to the dungeon, an open map with no obstacles, and the top-middle teleporter teleports you to the arena, which have boxes that block bullets. Both the dungeon and arena also has a teleporter that allows you to teleport back to the lobby. PVP mode is disabled in the lobby and is only enabled when entering other areas.